Dear President Obama,

I would like to congratulate you on the occasion of being awarded the Nobel Peace Prize in recognition of your achievements in eloquently and courageously pursuing world peace and advocating a joint effort by all members of the international community to confront the common challenges of the 21st century. People throughout the world have recognized your genuine ambition and efforts in promoting a world where all citizens can live in peace, opportunity, and dignity.

The people of Afghanistan are grateful for the continued support that the United States has provided for the ongoing rebuilding effort in Afghanistan during the past several years.
